

Think small. Party big.

*There is no guarantee you can attend this event. The thing is, we Texans love our event's atmosphere. We love having the highest level of competition—with a fun, laid-back attitude. We love having tons of workshops and competitions—done mostly during the day so the nights are filled with dancing. And we love dancing in a historical building with a gorgeous floor. So, when the options are to stay in our amazing 1930's venue and cap our event at 400 people, or to expand to a hotel and lose the Texas vibe we've created over the last five years... we choose the former. The choice was easy. It's having your Lindy family all together in one sweet mansion. It's going to an event large enough to have amazing competition, but small enough that you don't feel lost in the crowd. It's just southern hospitality. Registration is open. Think about it.
